Conservation Advisory Council
Dissemination of Environmental Information 2010 Special Projects Award

This award was presented to the LaGrange Conservation Advisory Council for its use of a novel method of disseminating environmental information. At the annual LaGrange Community Day held each June, the CAC uses a magnetic fishing game to attract children (and their parents) to a table manned by CAC members. While the children were being entertained, their parents were given information concerning stormwater discharge, mile-a-minute vine, rain gardens, hazardous waste disposal, biodiversity, and energy conservation. This program resulted in a tenfold increase in information dissemination without use of any tax dollars.
